

Nasúla Wóslolye - Mathó

Hi! I'm Brain the Robot! – Háu! Mas'wíchaša hemácha na Nasúla emáçiyape ló.
And I have some quick facts about bears. – Na mathó eçhíyatanhañ takúku oçhíçiyakapi waçhíñ.

Bears can be found all over the world. – Mathó kiñháñ makħásitomniyañ úñpi.
Bears you'll find in North America are black bears, brown bears, and polar bears. –
Khéya Wíta Makħóçhe kiñ lél, lenáke úñpi: mathósapa, mathóhota, na mathóska kiñ hená.

Bears eat both meat and plants. – Mathó kiñ thaló na nakúñ wathótho yútapi.
Over the winter a bear will go into a deep sleep and will not wake up until spring. –
Waníyetu kiñ óptapta mathó kiñ iyúha waníštíñmapi na wétu ahí šni hañní kiktápi šni.
A bear's sense of sight, smell, and hearing are really strong. – Mathó kiñ ištáblezapi na nakúñ yuphíya waómnapi na šna wanáħ'uñpi.

Bear butte in South Dakota and (Devil's Tower) in Wyoming are named after stories with bears. – Mathó Paha é na Mathó Thípila kiñ nuphíñ mathó içhážeyatapi.

Roar! – Ĥnáħna!

Look out for those bears and stay out of the way! – Mathó wawíçhaktapi na eçháš wiçhíñeyab eçhúñ po!

When you want more fun knowledge, come back for more Brain Facts with me, Brain the Robot! – Éyaš miyé hemácha šni čha eçháš kúpi na akhé Nasúla Wóslolye eyápi húñħ yunáyeçhiçhiyapi kte ló.